

mistra
future
fashion

Increased reactivity and applications for recycled cotton

Hanna de la Motte

The objective of the research is to develop methods that convert used cotton textiles into new valuable fibers and materials.

The project focuses on electrochemical oxidation of cellulose to increase its reactivity and facilitate production of new materials. The project is a Formas Mobility Starting Grant for Young Researcher.

